11.1.1 American Institute of Physics

<http://journals.aip.org>

Member of N-LIST Programme can access full-text of 18 journals published by the AIP with back files for five years.

The screenshot shows the AIP Applied Physics Letters website. The header includes the AIP logo and the journal title. A navigation bar contains links like Home, Browse, About, Authors, Librarians, Interactive Features, Purchase Content, Advertisers, Scitation, and AIP Journals. A search bar at the top right allows searching by Volume/Page, Keyword, DOI, Citation, or Advanced. Below the navigation bar, there are links to 'Browse Scitation' and 'Search Scitation'. A central section titled 'Announcements' features a link to 'iResearch reader for iPhone and iPod'. A sidebar on the left lists 'Table of Contents Alerts', 'RSS Feeds', 'Twitter', 'Calendar', 'AIP iGoogle RSS Gadget', 'Widget', and 'iResearch'. A callout box points to the 'Browse' link, stating 'Click Here to Browse the Volume and Issue of This Journal'. Another callout points to the 'RSS Feeds' link, stating 'Email Alerts and RSS Feed Option'. A third callout points to the 'iResearch' link, stating 'Download iResearch eReader to save article PDF files in local device'. A fourth callout points to the 'Browse Scitation' link, stating 'Browse and Search Journal from Scitation Platform'. The main content area displays a research highlight titled 'Nanotorsional resonator torque magnetometry' by J. P. Davis, D. Vick, D. C. Fortin, J. A. J. Burgess, W. K. Hiebert, and M. R. Freeman. The abstract describes the use of optical interferometry to measure the mechanical response of two torsion modes at resonance. A 'Read the Article' link is provided. A footer section mentions 'Available NOW' for the iResearch eReader.

Nanotorsional resonator torque magnetometry

J. P. Davis, D. Vick, D. C. Fortin, J. A. J. Burgess, W. K. Hiebert, and M. R. Freeman

Optical interferometry is used to measure the mechanical response of two torsion modes at resonance, which is proportional to the magnetization vector of the nanomagnetic element. By varying the bias magnetic field, the magnetic behavior can be measured with high resolution.

The screenshot displays the Cambridge Journals Online website. On the left, a sidebar contains navigation options: 'Browse Journals Subscribed To', 'INFLIBNET', 'Browse journals', 'By title', 'By subject', 'Favourites', 'Subscribed to', 'Collection manager', 'RSS/Atom feeds', 'Nutrition Society activation', 'Special sales', 'Advertising and Corporate Sales', 'My Cambridge Journals Online', 'My pay-per-view articles', 'My saved articles', 'My saved bookmarks', 'My saved searches', 'Change registration details', and 'My content alerts'. The 'By title' and 'By subject' options are circled in red. A blue callout bubble labeled 'Alphabetically list of Journals' points to the 'By title' option. Another blue callout bubble labeled 'Journals By Subject' points to the 'By subject' option. The main content area shows a list of journals with icons and titles, including 'Acta Numerica', 'Ageing & Society', 'AI EDAM', 'AJS Review', 'animal', 'BioSocieties', and 'Journal of Helminthology'. A blue callout bubble labeled 'List of Journals Which Subscribed By The UGC-Infonet Digital Library Consortium' points to the 'AI EDAM' journal. On the right, a 'List of Favourite Journals' sidebar shows a 'Favourites' section with a list of journals: 'Acta Numerica', 'Ageing & Society', 'AI EDAM', 'AJS Review', 'animal', 'BioSocieties', and 'Journal of Helminthology'. A red arrow points from the 'Favourites' section to the 'List of Favourite Journals' sidebar. Below this, there is a section for 'Southern Political Science Association' and a 'For new content alerts' section with a link to 'and a sample issue, click here'.

Semester System for Undergraduates: A Critique

The semester system proposed at the undergraduate level will result in a reproduction of inequalities. It seems to have been designed for the benefit of the foreign university service provider.

Many recent initiatives in higher education, while possibly aimed at raising quality and improving standards, raise serious doubts about their consequences. There is a disturbing possibility that such shifts will accentuate rather than bridge inequalities in our society. Part of this arises from their very premise. By staying with the parameters of an upper-middle class, non-disabled, urban

Abstract

Triangle Surface models are nowadays most often types of geometric objects description in computer graphics. For visualization of triangular models, geometry and topological information is sent to the pipeline. This information contains three coordinates, and optional normal, color and texture information. Therefore, the problem of fast visualization of this type of data is often solved. One of popular approaches is stripification. Stripification helps to reduce the rendering time by reduction of data size and avoid to redundant lighting and transformation computations. Stripification is a process of trying to rearrange polygonal data in such a way the adjacent polygons could be represented as triangle strips instead of their more complex form, thus saving vertices. This paper describes the algorithms for stripification and gives the performance analysis of these algorithms.

Keywords

strips, triangle mesh compression, rendering.

The IMA Journal of Applied Mathematics of the Institute of Mathematics and its Applications was started in 1965 with publishing papers in all areas of the applied mathematics. Since the appearance of the Numerical Analysis in 1981, analytic and numerical problems of both physical and non-physical applied mathematics, those arising in industry, have formed the main part of the Journal's contents. The Journal also seeks to publish developments of mathematical methods that have relevance to applied mathematics. Methods suggested by applications in topical fields are also welcome.

Status of Pollinators

A definitive assessment of the status of pollinator populations in North America will hinge on the quality and availability of data from a variety of well-corroborated sources, and such information is not available for every taxon. Because of their economic importance, actively managed pollinators are more likely than are wild pollinators to be closely and systematically monitored. But even when standardized data are available, interpretation

Active Vision — The Psychology of Looking and Seeing
John M Findlay and Ian D Gilchrist

ABSTRACT
More than one third of the human brain is devoted to the vision is after all the main way in which we gather information about the environment. Where most books on vision consider vision as an 'active' process. It goes beyond where the focus is on seeing, to provide an account of the book starts by pointing out the weaknesses in our tradition and the reason we need this new approach.

H Abstract and Keywords

This chapter reviews the features of the visual and oculomotor systems that are particularly important for understanding active vision. First, the chapter describes the inhomogeneity of the visual projections and the consequences of the resulting inhomogeneity on visual abilities. Human vision has a high resolution fovea at the centre and visual ability falling off quickly into peripheral vision. Second, the evidence for multiple types of parallel processing within the visual and oculomotor system is reviewed. Third, the basic characteristics of the oculomotor system are described and different types of eye movement are identified, followed by a more detailed description of saccadic eye movements: the fast ballistic eye movements that move the fovea to point at regions of interest.

Keywords: visual system, oculomotor system, fovea, peripheral vision, parallel processing, eye movement, saccades

2.1 Introduction
In this chapter we shall discuss features of the visual and oculomotor systems that are particularly important for understanding active vision. The accounts of both systems will be highly selective and specific to our perspective. Many detailed reference works are

The INFLIBNET Centre has initiated Inter Library Loan (ILL) services for the benefit of users from colleges enrolled under the NLIST programme. All faculty, staff and students from member colleges are welcomed to use this service and request journal articles and chapters from books that are not available through resources subscribed under the NLIST Programme. The requests for articles can be sent online using the ☐ Online ILL Request Form ☐ available on the NLIST website. This service is free of charge. Users are required to log-in with their user ID and password to request articles using NLIST ILL Service. The user ID and Password for ILL request are the same that have been provided to the users in colleges for accessing NLIST

License Agreements and Guidelines for Fair Use.

- The N-LIST programme subscribes to several electronic resources including full-text e journals, books and bibliographic databases for its member institutions. All electronic resources available through the N-LIST programme are governed by license agreements.
- Please ensure that the resource is used for educational and research purposes and not for commercial purposes.

- The licenses for electronic resources impose two types of restrictions on its usage, namely
 - i) who can use these resources
 - ii) how the resources can be used.
 - The second restriction deals with how these resources can be used. It is the responsibility of individual users to ensure that e-resources are used for personal, educational and research purposes only.

What Happens if the License is Violated?

- The access is stopped not only for journals where license agreement was violated but for all journals by the same publisher.
- Moreover, the access is suspended not only for the individual violator but for the entire institution.

General principles are as follows

Permitted	Not Permitted
➤ Viewing, downloading, copying, printing and saving a copy of search results	➤ Use of robots or intelligent agents to do systematic, bulk or automatic downloading is not permitted
➤ Viewing, downloading, copying, printing and saving individual articles	➤ Systematic downloading or printing of entire journal issues or volumes, or large portions of other e-resources is not permitted
➤ Using e-resources for scholarly, educational or scientific research, teaching, private study and clinical purposes	➤ Using e-resources for commercial gain is not permitted (i.e. reselling, redistributing or republishing licensed content)
➤ Sending a copy of an article to another authorized user (i.e. current faculty, students or staff)	➤ Transmitting, disseminating or otherwise making online content available to unauthorized users (i.e. sending to mailing lists or electronic bulletin boards) is not permitted
➤ Posting the URL to the publisher's version of the article on a class website (publisher links will allow only authorized users access)	➤ Posting the publisher's version or PDF of an article to an open class website is not permitted (instead, post the URL to the article which will allow only authorized users access)
